

“After I was diagnosed with an irregular heartbeat, their MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGH
gave me back my life.”

Jacquelyn Crawford,
Cured of Atrial Fibrillation

Jacque Crawford suffered from atrial fibrillation, a debilitating heart condition. Fortunately, she relied on our team of cardiac specialists at Barnes Jewish Hospital and Washington University Physicians – the largest, most experienced heart and vascular program in the region.

Thanks to a specialized technique our team developed and has performed longer than any other hospital, Jacque’s now caring for her grandchild, tap dancing in the Senior Olympics and even dog sledding in Alaska.

NATIONAL LEADERS IN MEDICINE

Here, we are pioneering technological breakthroughs that save lives and bring hope to those with heart and vascular disease. That’s why we’re national leaders in medicine.
